A Focus on Whole Person Health

Whole-person health includes physical health, behavioral health, emotional well-being, and all other factors that contribute to an individual's wellness. We support whole-person health in our communities by:

- Offering a large selection of top doctors. Our wide selection gives members the chance to choose a provider who they can trust.
- Supporting social determinants of health. We invest in education, employment, housing and homelessness issues, social justice, transportation, health equity, and more. We listen and work with communities to create extra benefits addressing social determinants of health.
- Participating in community outreach. We build strong relationships with our members and their communities by holding fun, educational events that promote access to care.
- Serving on boards and committees throughout the state. We strive to give a voice to our members and partners.
